

A FRIEND

said recently, "I buy all my boy's clothes now with what I save on my own." He used to have all his clothes made-to-order, but now he has learned that a certain make of ready-to-wear garments will give him all that he can ask for in style and durability.

He always looks for this label, and when he finds it, he knows he is safe, and buys.

If you are not familiar with this make of clothes, come in and we will take pleasure in demonstrating their superiority over any other make of ready-to-wear garments, and show you how you can dress in the most modest or extreme style at small cost.

In HATS and HABERDASHERY, too, we can give you some money-saving hints.

MOONSHINERS
ARE RAIDED

A Complete Still Found Near Asylum.

IN OPERATION
ABOUT TWO YEARS

Local Police Capture Apparatus and Deliver it to the Federal Officers.

One of the largest and most complete stills for the manufacture of alcoholic liquor was captured Saturday afternoon in a house occupied by Japanese back of the insane asylum. Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth, Chester Doyle and Captain Leslie made the raid, and after securing possession of the apparatus and alcohol-already manufactured turned the same over to Mr. Drake of the internal revenue office. The latter department will make the formal arrest today, and the moonshiners will be tried in the federal court.

On Saturday afternoon information was brought to the deputy sheriff by a special officer that he had located the still, which he believed was one of the most complete in the island. The three officers set out about 4 o'clock for the place, which is located directly back of the insane asylum, and bordering on a lake of about two acres which is fed by a subterranean stream which comes from under a house occupied by Japanese. The place is surrounded by a high board fence and is almost inaccessible, even in the day time. In order to reach the place the officers left the asylum road some distance below the asylum, passed two Japanese shacks and the house of Mrs. Jennie Miles, then crossed a Chinese vegetable garden, arriving then at the moonshiner's compound, around which is an apiary.

On gaining access to one of the houses the officers found in one room a closet arranged with shelves for holding bottles. Underneath the floor there was an excavation of about eleven feet, which was cemented and used for a well. A cauldron and all the appliances of a first-class distillery were there. The water tight compartment for chilling the boiling liquor was perfect, and the copper cauldron was of the best. In conversation with one of the Japanese Chester Doyle was told that the place had been running for more than two years.

After ascertaining many other facts the deputy sheriff thought that the federal authorities should be notified and an officer was sent to acquaint Internal Revenue Collector Chamberlain of the haul. Neither he nor Marshal Hendry could be found. Mr. Drake, of the revenue office, was found later by an officer while he was out driving. Mr. Drake looked over the place and everything was turned over to him by the local police. He instructed the Japanese who was found on the premises to look after the apparatus and he would return this morning to cart away the stuff.
